Leaving For the U.S.

The departure day for the Study Tour in California has finally come. 101 students and 8 escort teachers left Fukui for the U.S. in the morning of March 13, 2013. The transportation from Fukui to Narita was on schedule, but the flight to San Diego was delayed due to the strong wind. We arrived at San Diego Airport at 0:45 p.m., about 2 hours behind the schedule, but it was still on March 13.

We went to Seaport Village and had lunch there. Then, we went to Buena Park by bus and most of the students slept in the bus with the fatigue from the long journey.

A Very Long Day

We arrived at Knott's Berry Farm Hotel, where we stayed today, at 6:00 p.m. Mr. Nakamura, the escort leader, gave some advice for the tour to the students. Then, we had a buffet style dinner. After dinner, students practiced for the attraction without showing the fatigue.

They went back to their rooms around 9:30 p.m. and went to bed. It was a very, very long day today.
