Visiting Hollywood

On the 10th day, it was the day when the students were supposed to go to Hollywood. It took about two hours to get there by bus. When they saw the Hollywood Sign on the mountain, all of them were excited.

First, the bus stopped by the Chinese Theater and the students hung around there. Some students saw hand prints of Michael Jackson and Donald Duck in front of the Chinese Theater, and others walked along walk of fame, looking for the names of their favorite actors.

In the afternoon, we visited CBS studio Inc., where the popular TV show “The Doctors” is produced and one of the two teacher guides, Janelle, is working as her first job. We joined the TV show as an audience, and some of us might appear on TV in America! Electric devices, such as cameras, cell phones, iPods, and iPads, are strictly prohibited inside the studio, so no pictures can be put on this report.

< From Students' Diary >

Here in America, I had my birthday! And today was also wonderful day for me. We visited Excelsior Charter School, and I could meet the students we had met yesterday. One of the students took me to guitar class, and the students in the classroom sang the birthday song for me. (Aki Masuda, Fukui SHS)

Today, I went to three banks. I was lucky because I could go to an American bank. In the afternoon, I decorated and prepared for a party. I made a crane in one minute. Everyone was surprised at me. (Mizuki Kishimoto, Takefu Higashi SHS)

Today, we went to the high school, too. I went to a science class and saw “Day After Tomorrow”. And we went to the church and prepared for the farewell party. I don't want to go back to Japan. (Kazuki Sugishita, Tsuruga Kehi SHS)
