Quotes from students' diary

Students seem to have had good weekends with various experiences. These are some examples.

March 16th, SAT

I ate a breakfast made by hostmother about 11:00 AM. The breakfast was eggs and botatos and things which are like bread. It was Mexican food. I was glad to hear about Mexican food. After that, I washed dishes. Then, we went shopping. I bought many cookies and candies for a souvenir and drink juice with boba? (波波). I like it. Also, I ate tacos. It was my first tacos. It was difficult to eat it. After I got to home, I washed our clothes and watched a TV and played with a dog. She is a friendly dog. I could get along well with her. I couldn't understand most of my host family's English but I could be relaxed.

March 17th, SUN

Today in the morning, we went to church. This was my first time to go to church. First I had thought ceremony in the church was very strict but it was not true. This was like concert!! I'm surprised. Then I cooked Japanese food as lunch for my host. I cooked riceball and MISO soup. I was happy, my host enjoyed them. After lunch I played outside with my host sister. I'm very tired because I ran after them.

Studying about American education

At the beginning of the lesson, students had a small presentation on things they did over the weekend.

In the morning, students learned some basic information about American education system. Can you see some enthusiastic students raising their hands and asking questions to the teacher?

With a little knowledge of American education, we went on the campus tour to California State University, San Bernardino in the afternoon. The host mother of one of the students is a student of this university and she gave us a campus tour. We were very impressed by the huge size of the campus! Some of the students tried buying some coffee from the Starbucks on campus. They seemed to have no problem ordering what they wanted.
